General Comment

Having the ability to use options to trade in my IRA account is essential to give me flexibility and leverage to grow my retirement account. I don't have access to private equity funds to make huge returns. By writing covered calls, I can make extra dividends on my existing portfolio and by writing naked puts for the stocks that I want to buy, it gives me a lower entry price. Whats wrong with that? I am taking personal responsibility for my money. Please let me continue to do that.
